Dear Mr. Carlucci:

The visit to Central Intelligence Agency Headquarters on Friday, May 18th, was a definite success. More than a hundred of our students and faculty spent an extremely interesting and productive day taking a first-hand look at a key site in the production of national intelligence.

Your own opening remarks and responses to questions set a fast pace for the rest of the program and, indeed, that pace was maintained. The group enjoyed moving into a seminar mode and meeting with key officers at both working and policy levels. A number of critical subjects were covered with each student able to attend two seminars of his choice. Luncheon and an illuminating film completed a full and stimulating agenda.

I regret that I was unable to attend due to other commitments, but I am informed that all arrangements were handled in an efficient and gracious manner. Our Director of Intelligence Studies, Bill Koplowitz, who also could not be present, had worked with [redacted] of your Office of Training. She merits our appreciation and commendation for a job extremely well done. Student and faculty reaction, always notable for its forthrightness, has been uniformly favorable.

I want to express my appreciation for your personal involvement and for the continuing strong support to The National War College extended by The Central Intelligence Agency.

In addition to this visit we have benefitted greatly by the Agency's assignment of faculty members, by the nomination of superior students, by the appearance of Admiral Turner in our Distinguished American Lecture Series and by the participation of many CIA officers in other seminars, discussions, lectures and exercises. This kind of interest and assistance is crucial to the success of our professional training objectives.

With best wishes.

Sincerely,
